The young mistress of Brae Farm was looking over the little green gate that divided the garden from the big farmyard. It was still early in the afternoon, and there was a hush and stillness over the whole place as though a universal siesta prevailed. Presently from the long green meadow the cows would come slowly in single file to the milking-shed, and later on the cart-horses clattering heavily down the lane on their way to the pond. The turkeys and geese and even the cocks and hens were all afield, only the pigeons eat in rows on the red roof of the granary sunning themselves in the sweet May sunshine; and the sole occupants of the farmyard below were an old grey pony with paniers, dozing peacefully with his feet embedded in the clean yellow straw, and an infant asleep in one of the paniers. Mattie Renshaw come for some more new-laid eggs,...
