Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Transactions and Proceedings and Report of the Royal Society of South Australia, Vol. 7: For 1883-84 An examination of the different rock masses which compose the Australian Alps reveals many interesting geological features, not only in respect to their stratigraphical relations, but in the evidences of long-continued denudation which has laid bare the deep-seated crystalline schists and their intrusive rock masses. The surface configuration over which the sectional line has been determined is most varied, passing from the porphyritic bosses of the rugged Cobberas Mountains, across the Upper Silurian slates and marble-beds in the valley of Limestone Creek, through the metamorphic schist and granites of the Mitta-Mitta source-basin and its included Omeo plains and tableland, to the Main Dividing Range; thence across the deep gorge formed by the Dargo River (where the metamorphic schists merge into unaltered Lower Silurian slates and sandstones) to the basaltic tableland of the Dargo high plains, which has sealed up the river valleys of Miocene age. The lithological characters of the different rock masses are as follows: - At A...
