EFFECTS OF KAJARHAK'S DEATH. 115 CHAPTER VI. Good effects of Samuel's happy departure--Kuyayak--Awakening among the children---Arrival of assistants from Europe-- Growth of the congregation--An Angekok confounded--Greenland school--Piety of children--General awakening--A melancholy accident--Happy deaths of believers--Wickedness of Angekoks--Growth of believers--Falsehoods of the Angekoks-- The Capelin-fishery--Arrival of more assistants--A church erected at New Herrnhuth--The Lord's Supper administered-- Celebration of Christmas and the new year. The powerful influence of Samuel's happy death, in commending the Gospel to the survivors, was soon discernible in his widow, who often recollected the words of her husband with profit to her own soul, and gave real proofs that she was not like the other heathen, who have no hope. But as she had now no one on whom to depend for support, the Brethren took her and her children under their care, that want might not drive her to her heathenish relations, before she could be stationed in some pious Greenland family again. Samuel's departure had also some good effect on his brother Kuyayak, who had hitherto halted between two opinions. It is true, said he to the Missionaries, I have been as yet undetermined whether I would remain with you or not. But since I have seen how faithfully my brother adhered to the Saviour, and how joyous his end was, I very much regret my negligence, that I have not taken better notice of the words of our Saviour; but now I am...
